GYPSUM COMPANY WILL ERECT PLANT AND SELL PRODUCT

The organization of the Arizona Gypsum company, by local people, will be of interest to the farmer and home builder, inasmuch as large quantities of ground gypsum will be placed on the market for use as a fertilizer, and building material such as plaster board, solid and hollow blocks, flooring and roofing tiles. All kinds of plaster will be manufactured and furnished the building trade at a nominal cost.

Building material, made out of gypsum, is absolutely fire-proof, is a non-conductor of heat and cold, and of sound which makes it a desirable material for any kind of building. Plaster board can be furnished in any size and thickness desired and is designed to be nailed directly to the studding. Blocks and tiles are modeled in various sizes, and used for interior partitions, exterior construction, and flooring and roofing. Gypsum tiles are lighter than clay tiles, are straight and true, can be cut with a hand saw and because of their lightness and size can be laid very rapidly.

Gypsum when used as a fertilizer makes clays and clay adobe soils looser, prevents their packing, baking and cracking, makes plowing and cultivation easier, and, in general, makes the soil, physically, a healthier medium for plant growth. When used on alfalfa fields it stimulates the growth of the plant and in case of old fields rejuvenates the field. Gypsum is the only compound known that will neutralize sodium carbonate (black alkali) and make it harmless to plant life. Black alkali, though a white substance, is so named because in contact with the vegetable matter of wet soil it produces the dark appearance so well and unfavorably known to the irrigation farmer.

Gypsum is used in the plate glass industry, for making pottery molds, molds for rubber stamps and for optical purposes, especially in the manufacture of scientific optical instruments. It is used extensively for interior decorations and as a retarder in portland cement.

The property of the Arizona Gypsum company comprises forty-one hundred and sixty acres and is located near Winkelman, Arizona.

It is the intention of the company to erect a plant, somewhere in the Salt River Valley for the purpose of producing, and place same on the market at a price that will greatly reduce the cost of building and give the farmer a fertilizer that is badly needed at a low figure.

There are two gypsum plants in operation at Douglas and many business blocks and dwelling houses are being constructed out of gypsum blocks in the southern part of the state.

Several business men from Phoenix, Globe and Mesa have recently visited the property and they say the future possibilities of the company are unlimited and all that is necessary at this time is to secure the necessary machinery to reduce the material to a commercial product and a big success of the company is assured.

LIEUT. BERT CLINGAN IS BACK FROM FRANCE

Lieutenant Bert Clingan returned to Phoenix yesterday after an absence of more than a year and a half in service. Clingan was at his own request with the first contingent leaving here for Camp Funston.

He received his commission in France where he finished his training in an officers' training camp. Because of his ability he was retained at the school as an instructor.

The young officer arrived on this side about a fortnight ago, and on receiving his discharge went to Tucson where Mrs. Clingan held a position in the university during his absence in the service. They arrived in this city Tuesday and contemplate remaining here, although Clingan stated he had not yet shaped his business affairs.

SAILS TO ENTERTAIN SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

Miss Edna Paula Revare, a talented local girl, left last evening for New York from which place she will sail April 23 for France where she will serve as a Y. M. C. A. entertainer during the coming months.

Miss Revare, who has been a member of the faculty of the Arizona School of Music for the past two years as dancing instructor, will return to the institution in the autumn.

Unusually gifted, the young woman will entertain the men in service, not only by her dancing, but by her clever impersonations. She speaks French fluently and is considered one of the leading entertainers of the many who will do duty overseas during the spring and summer months.

During Miss Revare's absence on the other side her work at the School of Music will be carried on by Miss Vivian Young.

VICE-PRESIDENT NOT FOR BALLOT TO THE IGNORANT

In Address Before Big Gathering At Woman's Club Mr. Marshall Opposes Susan B. Anthony Amendment

"A real chance for every man or the consequences which equal the horrors that now exist in Russia."

This was what Thomas R. Marshall, vice-president, stated at the Woman's club yesterday when he addressed a capacity audience composed almost entirely of club women.

The speaker made a powerful plea for democracy, urging "do unto others" as the touchstone of the American rule.

"Quit complaining about wages," urged the vice-president in a vigorous attack on those who advocated that wages raised during the war period might now be lowered. It was the contention of the vice-president that it was unfair to educate the people to enjoy and then take from them. He sees in this method of taking away what has been given, cause for the unrest and disturbance incidental to conditions as revolting as now exist in Russia.

"There is ample in America for everyone," said the distinguished guest of the club who pleaded that every man be given a square chance to make a good living; that he might not only provide his family with necessities, but luxuries as well.

Future Depends On Women
In his talk on the "Reconstruction Period," Mr. Marshall stressed the importance of making out of the republic a real democracy. In speaking of the "World made over again" he pointed out the part the women are to play.

"The future of America depends upon the attitude of the women of America. It is idle to dream we are going back to the old conditions before the war," he said as he charged the clubwomen to address themselves to social service.

"The situation is not to be determined as to whether you live for yourself or for the common good of the people of the country. I am the only man on earth who believes in state's rights," he declared, declaring that he was also a believer in individual rights.

Rehabilitation of American life as far as you are concerned begins with the Salt River valley," Mr. Marshall said as he urged the women to go in for reforms in their immediate vicinity and not these 3,000 miles removed.

One of the most important questions which confronts the rehabilitation he held to be the ballot. He came out decidedly opposed to the Susan B. Anthony amendment and urged the women to put their part of his speech to denouncing the amendment, and the methods of the women behind it.

Idle Women In War Time
"I am opposed to it because it does not seem to me a sufficient right," he held that no one should vote in this country unless he is a full American citizen and can read, write and speak the English language. The Susan B. Anthony amendment does not cover the women of America, and he is placing the right to vote in the hands of the ignorant."

The vice-president stated that during all the tumultuous period of war he not only sat in the senate gallery, but among others in the corridors of the senate in the interests of the amendment. He contrasted these women with the clubwomen of America who during the war days demonstrated that they were the real women of America, the real American citizens deserving the right to vote. He referred to the war activities of the clubwomen—in conservation, in the Red Cross and various other lines of war work. He spoke in appreciation of their sacrifices, suffering and endurance during the trying months that followed the declaration of war. He referred to the attempt of the nation to keep out of the war and how the charge of George Washington had tried to be obeyed in reference to entangling alliances with European governments.

Fine Musical Program
His only reference to the league of nations had to do with this feature of his talk when he asked "Don't you think we are already mixed up in the politics of Europe?" and answered himself with the statement of making friends in the hope that war cease forever and forever.

The vice-president was introduced by Mrs. W. W. McNeef, president of the club. Just before the close the president had occasion to introduce another speaker, Power Conway, who made a plea to the clubwomen to aid in "putting over" the Victory loan.

There was an unusually delightful musical program including vocal numbers by Mrs. Arthur Gibbons Hulett and William Conrad Mills. The Arizona Mocking Bird clever little Miss Leona McDowell gave three whistling selections.

NO WARRANTS AFTER JUNE 13 FOR FIFTEEN STATE DEPARTMENTS

Fifteen different departments of the state may feel the pinch of poverty in a short time, for Jesse Boyce, state auditor, says that he will not issue warrants for them after June 13.

Senate Bill 90 is the "follower" of the budget bill, and provides that state officers may not spend more than the specific appropriation for the specific purpose. Boyce bases his announced action on the new law and on the interpretation thereof by the attorney general.

Further than that, the auditor names the things he will not issue warrants for after the new law goes into effect, 15 of them. Here they are:

National guard salaries.
Printing reports of state officers.
Printing decisions of the supreme court.

State tax commission expenses outside salaries.
State board of equalization expenses.
State veterinarians mileage.
Premiums on bonds of state officers.
Loans to counties for bridge building.

State funds for high schools and normals for teaching vocational work.
County fair assistance.
County scholarships.
Court commissioners expenses.
Expenses and mileage of state health officer.

Expenses of superior judges sitting as supreme court justices.
Vocational education.

The new law will go into effect June 13, unless referred or repealed. The refusal of Boyce to issue warrants will doubtless precipitate a legal battle, the first skirmish of which will probably be a attempt to have the auditor "mandamus," to issue the warrants, and will lead to court interpretations of the law.

The tax commission, which body stood to be more than embarrassed, and still does if Boyce does what he says he will, asked Attorney W. E. Ryan, the author of the bill, for an opinion on it, and having received it, are standing pat. Portions of the Ryan opinion follow:

"I see no objection which can be raised under the provisions of Senate Bill 90, against the power of the state board of equalization, fixing an amount to be raised for the general fund, specific in amount to cover every indefinite continuing appropriation, similar to that contained in Paragraph 1333 of Revised Statutes 1913, where, (speaking of the tax commission,) it says:

"There is hereby appropriated out of the general fund of this state, a sum sufficient to carry out the provisions of this act," and when those amounts are fixed, taxes raised to put them into the treasury, (raised under authority of the levy bill of 1919 delegated to the state board of equalization) those amounts become taxed raised funds in the general fund, and there subject to the provisions of sections one and two of Senate Bill 90.

"The only difference between the situation now existing and that which existed in former years is in connection with the manner in which the board of equalization must now act. It must specify the amounts for each purpose for which money is to be taxed for the general fund, instead of using those amounts as detailed, that a 'lump total' be arrived at, and is levied in a lump sum for general fund purposes. In other words, the 'budget system' will start with a specification of amounts connected with specific purposes fixed and levied for those purposes, and to be used for no other purpose when so levied and put in the state treasury.

"The same rule of action will now apply to the general fund, as formerly applied to levies made to provide funds for special appropriations to fund other than the general fund. Each public expenditure which under any law of this state is authorized to be paid from the 'general fund,' must be considered and specific amounts fixed to become credits in the general fund.

"When the state board of equalization acts along lines suggested in this letter, the specific amounts of appropriations will appear for every purpose of action by the state auditor and the state treasurer, and will become amounts controlling the drawing and payment of warrants.

"Referring again to the Boyce-Callaghan case, when your commission audits an account for payment from

NEW RAILROAD GIVES IMPETUS TO HOLBROOK FINED FOR TOO SLOW DRIVING OF SHEEP

Professor Carrol George Bolman, superintendent of the schools of Holbrook, is in the city on educational business, and in a day or two will leave for Tucson. Though Holbrook is by no means in the center of the state and is not so well known as many other towns, Mr. Bolman says that it is rapidly coming to the front, chiefly in consequence of the new railroad running down to Cooley, or up to Cooley, in Apache county.

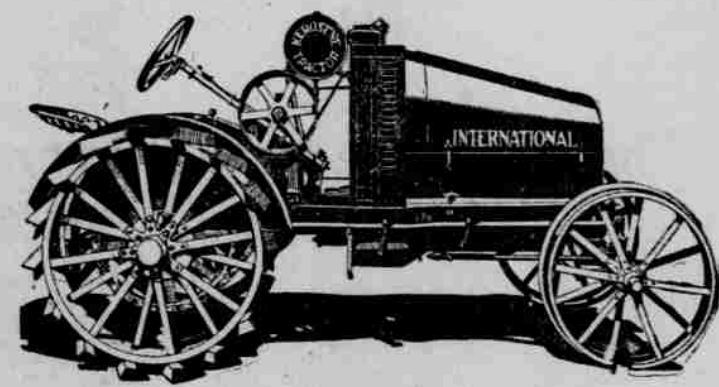

A great saw mill has been established there and the road is contributing to the prosperity of its northern terminus. The oil prospects of Navajo county are helping much, so that the town is at all times crowded and it is difficult to secure lodgings. While the field is so

Justice De Souza yesterday found Sebero Rocha, A. Para and Rinaldo Gutierrez guilty of the charge of failure to move sheep traveling across a cattle range three miles a day, and fined the defendants $25 each.

Testimony in the case occupied several days and was taken over a period of as many weeks. The question involved was whether or not the land was a cattle range, and scores of cattle men took the stand and gave the history of the range from the year 1875. The land is best known as the old Billy Cook range and was found to be a cattle range on which sheep are not allowed to pasture.
